'Milenyo' heads for Metro; no classes

By Alvin Papa, Manolo S. Rivera and Inquirer Southern Luzon and Visayas

PREPARING FOR HEAVY RAINS SPANNED by Typhoon "Milenyo" (international name: Lakan), the Department of Education suspended classes today in all elementary and high schools in Metro Manila.

In an advisory, Education Secretary Juli Lapus yesterday said that classes were also suspended in Bulacan, Laguna, Batangas, Cavite and Palawan provinces.

The Commission on Higher Education has yet to announce the suspension of classes in the subregion.

Classes in all levels were already suspended yesterday in Laguna City. As of 4 p.m. yesterday, the eye of the storm was spotted 30 kilometers east of the city.

Lapus said elementary and high school classes in Metro Manila and the provinces were suspended on the recommendation of the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA).

"Since 1995, there has been no strong typhoon that has crossed this close to Manila," he said. "The typhoon is now south of Luzon, and our models suggest that it will traverse the south of Manila, passing Cebu, Lapu-Lapu, etc.," he said.

Milenyo is expected to be 310 km east of Metro Manila this afternoon.

DOLE, PRC to thresh out details of new tests today

By Christine G. Arendale

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo has ordered the retake of the June nursing board examination to redress the image of Filipino nurses here and abroad, Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita announced yesterday.

Ermita said Labor Secretary Arroyo will meet today with officials of the Professional Regulation Commission (PRC) to discuss the details of the retake of the exams that was marred by a leakage of test questions.

He also said his Arroyo had assigned the supervision of the PRC to the Department of Labor and Employment. Prior to the leakage controversy the PRC was attached to the Office of the President.

THE FATE OF CHARTER CHANGE through a people's initiative now rests on five legislative districts where the groups Signer ng Bayan and Union of Local Authorities of the Philippines (ULAP) reportedly failed to secure the required signature of at least 3 percent of the registered voters in each district.

Toward the end of the more than nine hours of oral arguments at the Supreme Court on Tuesday night, Chief Justice Antonio Pangalanan ordered the Charter change proponents to show proof that this constitutional requirement had been met.

"It is not clear that the 3 percent voter signature requirement was not reached even in one congressional district. If it will be the end of the position [for Charter change through a people's initiative] and will be dismissed," Pangalanan told Bernardo Pardo, lawyer of Signer and a former chair of the Commission on Elections.

"All parties are given 15 days from today (Monday) to submit memoranda whether the 3 percent was reached in all legislative districts in the country. After 15 days, the issue is deemed submitted for decision with or without the memoranda," the Chief Justice said.

Then, he said, the constitutional parties were required to prove their case "according to the last documents in their possession."

Signer and ULAP's purported failure to meet the 3-percent requirement was noted by former South Cotabato Rep. Lauch Jr.

Bolante: US using me as pawn to free 4 US Marines

By Philip C. Talavera

FORMER WASHINGTON UNDERSECRETARY Archibuteo "Doc" Bolante has accused the US government of using him as a "pawn" to secure the release of four American Marines accused of killing a 23-year-old Filipino woman at the Subic Bay Freeport last year.

To support his contention, Bolante submitted to the Washington district court hearing his Bolante copies of a copy of an FBI report on Sept. 18 on a claim by the alleged rapist's mother that the head of the prosecution team had proposed a settlement with the accused Marines.

"Courts for politicians have discovered additional information demonstrating that Bolante is likely being used as a

THE GOVERNMENT YESTERDAY REJECTED a demand by the Moro Islamic Liberation Front to expand a Muslim autonomous region without holding a referendum, raising prospects of a prolonged impasse to peace talks.

The government remains firm in its position that the region cannot be expanded unless residents in affected areas approve the move in a plebiscite, Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita said.

Muslims-backed talks between the government and the MILF, the largest Muslim group fighting for self rule in the southern Philippines, had a snag early this month over the issue.

The MILF wants to include 613 Muslim-dominated barangays in the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao without a plebiscite.

"We will stand pat on our position that we must follow the constitutional process," Ermita said yesterday a day after government negotiators and Cabinet security officials agreed on the position.

MILF chair Murad Ibrahim has blamed the government for the stalled talks and accused that negotiations could collapse if the government does not take them seriously.

RP to miss safe water target

INDIA AND CHINA ARE LIKELY to meet 2015 targets for access to safe drinking water for 80% of the world's population, but four other Asian nations are expected to fall, the United Nations report said.

Indonesia is on course to miss the only water target as well as a 20% goal for improved sanitation, while Pakistan, the Philippines and Vietnam may meet sanitation goals but not the water target, the Manila-based bodies said.

In 2005, world leaders agreed to a set of Millennium Development Goals that included setting a goal by 2015 for the proportion of people with access to safe drinking water to double and improved sanitation.

In 2002, about 780 million people in the Asia-Pacific region were still without safe water supplies and access to toilets had to be improved or no other facilities, the book said. Since then, governments in the region have taken various steps to improve access to water, but the progress is slow, it said.

ADB President Haruhiko Kuroda noted at the opening of a two-day conference in Manila that improvements on other UN development indicators, including income levels, hunger, education, the disease, maternal and child mortality rates and environmental sustainability, "all have one factor in common: water."

Double victory for Esperon

Jinggoy no show at hearing; AFP chief admits meeting with senator

By TJ Surpes

FINALEX, HE CAN WEAR HIS four stars to any official function without raising eyebrows.

In accepting his appointment, Armed Forces Chief Gen. Hermenegildo Esperon yesterday bowed through the Commission on Appointments without any objections being posed, giving confirmation for his three- and four-star ranks in one day.

Esperon's family dog "Jedrek" continued to come along after appointments too. Jinggoy Estrada failed to show up at the CA hearing and planning to withdraw his motion to question Esperon on his alleged role in the "Yaku-Care" controversy.

Esperon admitted he had "casual" talks with Estrada a few days ago.

"There's nothing really that was said between us. We had some friendly, casual conversations. We understood each other," he said of Estrada.

With the issue of appointing Esperon out of the way, members of the CA defense committee agreed at a session to confirm his appointment and continue to the rank of lieutenant general, and to full general at a later plenary session.

Only the AFP chief's appointment to three-star rank was on the agenda of yesterday's plenary. Up until the current session, his fate was uncertain.

Opposition Sen. Sergio Osmeña II earlier threatened to introduce bills to strip the CA of the plenary, but which Jinggoy was given the privilege to delay appointment without explanation or question, it learned after he did so.

During the course of the CA defense committee, Osmeña once to inform the body that Estrada had called to say he was withdrawing his objection because he could not find the time to attend the session as he had to attend to some other matters with Estrada.

Senate President Manuel Villar and Rep. Jovito Salazar, chair of the defense committee, defended the body's decision to confirm Esperon's appointment at the same time even though he had no previous to three-star rank was on the agenda.

No big deal

"I have no objection to the members of the Commission on Appointments that it was time to confirm the general and admiral. There was no more objection, everything was clear in their confirmation. There's no big deal about this confirmation," Villar said.

"There were no more objections. Why let him be promoted?" asked Borromeo.

Esperon was promoted to three-star rank in August 2005. He was appointed to the CA by Congress in early June after Estrada and Osmeña signaled that they intended to investigate him at the commission of administrative inquiry.

He took over the top AFP post on July 21, a position that carries four-star rank.

"I'm so happy with this double confirmation. I was expecting to be confirmed to lieutenant general, but the Commission on Appointments has so graciously given me the four-star and I sincerely thank them," announced Esperon in a report.

A total of 16 other senior officials, including 11 generals, were also confirmed.

"What can I do?"

Esperon later said: "What can I do? It's the majority who confirmed him."

He said he had "nothing against" the chief and that he had only agreed to ask him some questions on the whistleblowing scandal.

In June 2005, whistleblowers accused that partially retired President Manuel Arroyo and then House Committee Vice Chairperson Virgilio Geronimo-son, Jr. in the results of the 2004 presidential vote. Esperon was one of the military officials implicated in the fraud.

Esperon himself confirmed Estrada, among others, for his month conviction. He said the talks with the senator had been arranged by a mutual friend.

"I don't think I have to condemn anybody," he said when asked how he remained silent to Estrada's actions.

"We took that up based on enlightened discretion and willingness to accommodate each other," he said.

Esperon confirmed meeting with Estrada, and said he was satisfied with the general's explanation that he had no hand in the fraud allegedly perpetrated in the 2004 election.

Ermita to Defensor: Don't talk too much

By Gil C. Cabacungan Jr.

THE PRESIDENT'S PITY CABINET official should not talk too much, according to the "Yankee President."

Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita said he has advised President Chief of Staff Michael Defensor to be more circumspect about political matters "because he is very popular and anything that comes from him is picked up by the media."

Ermita said he told Defensor not to "make any more statements because there are already many things from our agenda."

Defensor took the advice personally. The new job brought him a lot of attention, he said. "I just repeated my message to him not to talk too much," he said. "I don't think he's talking me to shut up. He's just wanted to be very close to me, all of them are afraid," said Defensor, who often has been seen as the President's spokesperson in sharing opinion about

Ermita said Defensor's assessment a few weeks ago that retired Gen. Jose Arzobispo was being considered for deputy security adviser.

Ermita was forced to issue a denial as it was Defensor's colleague, retired Maj. Gen. Pablo Caringal who was picked by President Macapagal-Arroyo for the post.

Ermita was again forced to make a denial a few days ago to correct the misimpression caused by Defensor's assessment that several Cabinet officials were planning to run for the Senate next year.

"His statements are his personal opinion, I am not interested in running for senator and I have no intention. He just mentioned it as a chance being considered and he took it out of this," Ermita said.

He noted that the others that Defensor mentioned as "being possible administration members" included like Senator Secretary Eduardo Araya had to come out to deny having such intention.

He said the government could not be seen to be making plans for the upcoming elections when it was actively campaigning for a shift in government system.

"For me, this is not the time to talk about the political line-up in next year's elections. But I think him [Defensor] for not forgetting me when he listed names of possible potential candidates for the administration," Ermita said.

In yet another controversial statement, Defensor last Tuesday said that Macapagal was seriously considering leaving the office of Defensor's President Ermita to prevent him from using the funds to build a double-breasted shirt.

Ermita said there was no such thing as a free lunch.

Airports may ease security measures

THE UNITED STATES' decision to relax its border liquid and gas has moved the same strict aviation security policies in airports to the Philippines.

Office of the Transportation Secretary Lito Lita said he is aware that he has received a call from the US Transportation Secretary about the relaxing of US restrictions.

To remind that there are no plans to relax Philippine security policies as of yet, but aviation security will be relaxed with the representatives in review the situation.

The Philippines had followed expanded security measures world-wide, which included checking hand-carried liquids and gas in all domestic and international flights, but recently following a failed bombing plot in Manila to use liquid explosives on US-bound airlines.

Recently, however, aviation operators requested support for a total relaxation border to lower transportation in passengers. They argued aviation officials that individual airline operators observe their own security measures on top of those being implemented in the state's airports.

DOH tops anti-corruption list; BIR is 4th

THE GOVERNMENT'S anti-corruption report card for the first semester of the year gives the Department of Health top honors for its anti-corruption efforts, while the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is the Department of Education.

Given in the top 10 among 17 agencies monitored by the Presidential Anti-Graft Commission (PAGC) were the Department of Social Welfare and Development, Department of Science and Technology, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Department of Trade and Industry, Office of the President, Department of Education, Department of Public Works and Highways, the Philippine National Police and the Metro Manila Development Authority.

At the bottom were the Office of the Department of Tourism, the Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board, the Department of Agriculture, and the Bureau of Immigration.

The PAGC integrity evaluation program is being built in connection with the Anti-Graft Commission for Anti and Public of the Department of Justice and the 27-member Organization for Government and Development (OGED), which handles good government and integrity concerns.

MR. COMMISSIONER Jose Maria Baling said the list is not a satisfaction of the first four years' standing because it was the first time the top 10 ranking was achieved in the top 10, leading to long continued reputation as one of the most corrupt agencies in government.

Baling noted that the BIR is committed to continue good for the first six months of this year.

He attributed this to their successful tax collection strategies, as well as to the infusion of money and integrity in the tax collection function.

Baling has also launched a program to improve customer service in the Bureau and to ensure greater tax consciousness among the people through intensified collaboration.

To improve tax collections, the BIR launched several action plans, including profiling and benchmarking of industries, identification of industries with high potential for business tax compliance, implementation of the computer-assisted audit program in regions of high, low, and medium risk, and computerized tax assessment and collection. ROADMAP TO ENERGY SELF-SUFFICIENCY Series 3

Good News for the Filipino Consumers: An Advance Merry Christmas in September

Weekly Oil Price Rollbacks, NO Transport Fare Hike, Prices of Basic Commodities & Electricity Rates to Remain Stable

Based on the decision of OPEC member countries to sustain their current oil production levels of 25 million barrels, even though demand is slowing and inventories are growing, the Consumer & Oil Price Watch (COPW) sees weekly rollbacks in the prices of petroleum products in the coming months.

In addition, non-OPEC member countries are producing more and many countries like the Philippines are looking at alternatives to crude oil like ethanol, geothermal, hydro, wind power, coal, natural gas, & bio-diesel.

COPW is optimistic that with the strengthening of the peso, electricity rates will stabilize, prices of basic commodities will not increase, and there will be no increase in transport fares.

Despite this good news, we should not be too complacent as the Philippines could be on the verge of another power crisis.

Our current power facilities are old, antiquated, and obsolete. They cannot sustain the increasing demand for power. As it is, we may be experiencing rotating brownouts as early as the summer of 2008, when the hydro-power plants are at their lowest level.

To make things worse, the 600 MW Mirant Sual (Pangasinan) coal-fired plant broke down and will take 6 to 8 MONTHS TO REPAIR. This coincided with the scheduled maintenance of one unit of the 700 MW Mirant Pagbilao (Quezon) coal-fired power plant. This forced NPC to run power plants using the more expensive bunker fuel and diesel plants resulting in the increase in WESM (Wholesale Electricity Spot Market) prices.

Thus, COPW urges Congress & the Office of the President to amend the EPIRA Law (RA 9136), before Congress goes on recess on December 15, in order to avert another power crisis.

These amendments will allow more foreign investments to bring in the much needed capital to build NEW power plants to generate the additional 4,438 MW power requirements up to 2010.

COPW proposes the following essential amendments to the EPIRA Law:

1. For Congress to privatize TRANSCO by granting the winning bidder a 25-year congressional franchise to operate.
2. For Congress to lower the required privatization of NPC assets from 70% to 50%. Today, ONLY 23.5 % of the NPC power plants are privatized.
3. Make the Energy Regulatory Commission (ERC) truly independent so that decisions will NOT be subject to review by the courts.
4. Amend the NPC Charter (RA 8395) to remove the NPC exemption from the payment of taxes. This will bring the total installed capacity whose income tax holidays will expire on December 2006 to 83% and on December 2008 to 95% of installed capacity.
5. For Congress & the Senate to review & pass the following Bills before Congress adjourns on December 15th, namely:
 - BioFuels Act - Senate Bill No. 2226 & House Bill No. 4629.
 - House Bill No. 5515 - the Downstream Natural Gas Industry Development Act of 2006.
 - Senate Bill No. 2411 - An Act Harmonizing the Grant & Administration of Fiscal & NON-Fiscal Incentives.
 - House Bill on Fiscal Incentives.

COPW will meet with DOF, DOE, PSALM, TRANSCO & NPC officials to request for an update on the Credit Suisse First Boston (CFSB) and Sycip Gorres Velayo & Co. (SGVAA) on the electricity industry restructuring to the Senate Energy Committee, on September 15, 2009, in the light that the conditions six years ago have significantly changed.

The COPW will submit its position paper to the House and Senate Committees on Energy and the Committee on Ways and Means chairman on the above mentioned Bills in the Week of October 6th.

Jinggyo fumes over Palace plan to freeze Erap assets

By Juliet Luning-Jordan

SIN. JINGGYO ORFILA YUSTERO RECALLED Malacañan's reported plan to freeze more assets of his detained father, President Joseph Estrada, as grounds for denouncing this government because it is already destabilizing itself.

"Let us not get carried that my father has no plan of destabilizing this government. We have never been involved in destabilizing this government because it is already destabilizing itself," Jinggyo said in a speech in the Senate.

He said Malacañan's plan was "very, very risky."

"Why is it that every time this administration, especially the Office, they always blame my father?" he said. "President Estrada is doing a very good job. Every day he is working hard."

Jinggyo said his mother, Sen. Lito "Lito" Orfela, said that his father was charged with plunder.

"What assets are we talking about?" Jinggyo asked of Presidential Chief of Staff Michael "Mike" Dequina.

"I think he is talking up the wrong case," Jinggyo said.

Water execs meet

SEVEN 250 GENERAL MANAGERS AND board directors from 41 water districts in Northern Mindanao will meet today in Cebu City to discuss water supply issues.

The 24th Southern Mindanao Water Supply Conference is being held by the Philippine Water Supply Association, which was formed in 2005 to discuss water issues in the region.

The forum will discuss with the Philippine Water Supply Association, according to Philippine Water Supply Association, the water supply issues in the region.

Dequina said the project includes construction of new dams, 12.5 kilometers of new water lines, a 100,000 cubic meter water storage tank and a water pump station.

Pimentel laughs off Abcede threat

By TJ Bugarin

SEN. MIGUETT Leader Imelda Pimentel laughed off as "a lot of nonsense" the threat by Philippine Commission on Good Government (CGC) to sue her for allegedly receiving a gag order from the Supreme Court.

Pimentel described it as an "empty threat" that had no legal basis, asserting that she had never communicated on the case with pending before the high tribunal.

"Words is there in this gag order but it is just a lot of nonsense. It can't prevent me from doing my duty as a senator or a lawmaker," Pimentel said, adding to her reports that she had been given a gag order by the CGC.

Pimentel said, adding to her reports that she had been given a gag order by the CGC. She said she had been given a gag order by the CGC. She said she had been given a gag order by the CGC.

Gag order

There was no threat of a gag order by the high court, he asserted.

"I'm able to report what I had nothing to do with the gag order in the matter," Pimentel said, adding that she had been given a gag order by the CGC.

DOJ, issued by President Arroyo in February 1996, gave CGC officials immunity from being in legislative, judicial and administrative proceedings.

Words had said that the CGC was considering filing a motion to sue to compel Pimentel and other individuals who were allegedly receiving a gag order.

After hearing the oral arguments in the petition for the issuance of a writ of habeas corpus filed by Pimentel, the CGC then granted her writ, but with the high tribunal ordered all parties from discussing the merits of the case. It also ordered Pimentel to remain silent.

The Senate said the gag order was issued after Pimentel's complaint, but the CGC-commissioners and the PRC since then after they received a gag order from the high court of the Supreme Court.

Order recalled

Meanwhile, Sen. President Manuel "Mang" Villar Jr. said his police officers had given immunity to Pimentel and other individuals who were allegedly receiving a gag order from the Supreme Court.

Airlines prepare for transfer to Naia 3

By Helen Jones

RIGHT STRATEGIC PLANNING FOR THE international air line operating out of the country's premier international airport.

The airlines have included in their planned budgets for 2010 their plans to transfer to the newly built and scheduled Naia 3 International Airport Terminal 3 on Oct. 15. They have been doing so for the past few years, but this time around, they are more serious.

"The airlines always hope for the best, that's why we always include Naia 3 in our budgets," says an airline official.

There are about 30 airlines operating out of Naia 1, the main airport that the Manila International Airport Authority would most likely have if and when Naia 3 finally opens.

After much legal wrangling, the government has recently paid P2.3 billion in total payment to the Philippine International Air Terminal Corp. (Piatco), the contractor that built the Naia 3, which opened the way for the issuance of a set of permissions to the government to transfer to Naia 3.

With the ink to hand, the government hopes to make the Naia 3 opening smoother.

Airline executives have said they moved so quickly to Naia 3 because the old international terminal has become too congested with the growing number of air travelers.

Every year since 2002, when the Naia 3 was first proposed to be ready to open, the airlines had a combined budget of an estimated half a billion pesos for their transfer to the new airport, the Airport Operations Council (AOPC) said.

Each airline's budget would include provisions for handling baggage at the office space at the new terminal, computers, communication facilities, equipment and other items it would need to comply with the minimum operational requirements.

And when the airport terminal's opening was postponed, the budgets reverted back to the airline's head quarters, but the airlines have since they always included the Naia 3 transfer in their yearly budget proposals, the council said.

"We abide by what's required of us, we make preparations for our possible transfer and the preparation always starts with the budget," the council said.

One of the estimated P26 million for its passenger lounge alone, while another allocated P10 million for the fuel tank at the new terminal.

"It's very accurate to see the budget. Everything we are required to do is included in the budget," the council said.

It is such a budget process that most airline headquarters offices "would not touch it and deliberate on it itself" they are sure that the Naia 3 is ready to open.

"The airline can budget by telling our headquarters that there might be a possibility that Naia 3 will open," the council said.

But after their houses would be, finally, "What year?"

Fraport case won't affect Naia 3 opening—Palace

THE PLANNED OPENING OF THE Manila International Airport Terminal 3 will not be affected by the Philippine Bureau of Investigation's recent filing charges against Fraport AG, the German parent of the company that built the terminal, by visiting the last Sunday here, according to a top state official.

Executive Secretary Orlando Limas also said he did not think there are any loss of goodwill between the government and the Philippine International Air Terminal Co. (Piatco) contractors as a result of the case against Fraport.

"I don't think there could be any loss of goodwill because in the first place the BIR is investigating the tax violation of the parent company law to separate and distinct from the issue in the opening of the international airport," Limas said.

The said BIR had been investigating the parent for the violation.

"So I don't see why it could have any effect in the opening of the airport. There are two separate cases," Limas said.

Saves about 80% on your a/c bills... use IWATA EVAPORATIVE AIR-CONDITIONER WITHOUT COMPRESSOR & FREON GAS

With Naia 3, the first air from outside is introduced into the building and the air is cooled by the water that automatically flows from the white surface area of the ceiling, using the evaporation and evaporation principle. This air is then blown into the room by the fan. The result is a cool and comfortable environment.

Menthol cigarettes give stronger hit but deadlier

Smoking #1

Smokers in the United States suffer disproportionately high smoking-related fatalities.

For a mixture of historical and cultural reasons, including greater advertising, about 78 percent of black smokers smoke menthol cigarettes such as Kent or Newport, compared to about 61 percent of white smokers, according to the study published in the American Journal of Epidemiology.

Plus, combined with the difficulty in quitting the menthol cigarettes habit, could help the numbers figure out why there is a 300 percent higher rate of death in black smokers who smoke menthol cigarettes than white smokers who smoke menthol cigarettes.

The study which looked at the smoking habits of 1,231 people over 75 years old in the United States who smoked cigarettes were found to have higher rates of death than those who did not smoke cigarettes, said Dr. David P. Thomas of the University of California, San Francisco, the lead author of the study.

"Typical of the situation, that they're more of a social phenomenon, there is some evidence that it involves tobacco use, the socialization of tobacco, the social norms," he said.

"So if menthol will last longer, that's a big part of the reason why it's more of a social phenomenon, though that is still speculative."

Menthol "has associated with a lower likelihood of trying to quit in the first place," the study said.

It added that menthol cigarettes

if they did quit, were more likely to relapse after trying to quit than those who did not quit.

Previous study of 800 smokers and 700 non-smokers found that 10 percent of those who smoked menthol cigarettes in 1990 were still smoking in 2000, compared to 16 percent of smokers who smoked regular cigarettes.

The study said it found no evidence that menthol cigarettes were more addictive than regular cigarettes.

"Menthol and mentholated cigarettes seem to be equally harmful per cigarette smoked to smokers in terms of lung function and death in long-term smokers," the study concluded.

Smoking-related lung and heart disease kills 470,000 people in the United States each year, the study said.

All types of tobacco, menthol and regular, are addictive and can cause lung cancer, heart disease and other health problems.

Bayer Marks 5 Years of BYEE

Five years since the Bayer Young Environmental Envoys (BYEE) Program was launched in the Philippines, the 87-strong network of youth environmental leaders is making its presence increasingly felt. Its alumni club has been selected as the national focal point of the UNEP Southeast Asia Youth Environment Network.

Disregarded Alumni

At the recent Tansa World Youth Conference held by the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) in Bangalore, India, Bayer Young Environmental Envoys (BYEE) alumni were honored for their contribution to the environment. The conference was held from June 10 to 14, 2004, in Bangalore, India.

Bayer-UNEP Partnership
As part of its corporate social responsibility, Bayer is a proud partner of UNEP in its global youth activities. In 2004, an agreement was signed by the heads of UNEP and Bayer, Professor Klaus Töpfer and Dr. Werner Weismann, making Bayer the first private sector partner of UNEP in the area of youth and the environment.

Bayer supports UNEP with a funding of EUR 1 million per year for about a dozen environmental projects for young people around the globe. The company has integrated its own projects and activities into the joint program. At the heart of the partnership is the Bayer Young Environmental Envoys Program, which outstanding youth from 16 countries around the world get to visit Germany for a working environmental study tour.

2006 Bayer Young Environmental Envoys honored tonight

Tonight, 13 young men and women will be recognized for their commitment and service to sustainable development and environmental protection.

Selected as a national award, these young leaders, coming from various fields—engineering, law, communications, management, forestry, sports and more—will be honored for their commitment and service to sustainable development and environmental protection.

Four of these 13 young people will be selected to go on an environmental study tour of Germany.

Abstract OBJECTIVE: The direct impact of a change in the rate of opportunity is the net change. Indirect effects include the propagation of the change to other layers, after the 2007 recession.

Rep. Thomas Luken, D-Ohio, produced a charge-sheet and petition for impeachment against the House of Representatives. The charge-sheet, which was introduced in the House on June 10, 1992, charged that the House of Representatives had violated the Constitution by failing to hold a hearing on the nomination of Clarence Thomas to the Supreme Court. The charge-sheet also charged that the House of Representatives had violated the Constitution by failing to hold a hearing on the nomination of Clarence Thomas to the Supreme Court. The charge-sheet also charged that the House of Representatives had violated the Constitution by failing to hold a hearing on the nomination of Clarence Thomas to the Supreme Court.

Columbian land 11. Cruz suggested the participation of Chalcidius leucopus. The house subsequently approved the resolution to convene Congress in a Constituent Assembly—without the participation of the President—and change the Constitution. Poretsky knows that this is unconstitutional, including the requirement that only the President may suggest, amend, ratify or veto laws or decrees. But they have already been altered and approved as an unconstitutional proposal. This is clearly a violation of the law. "It is a crime," he says.

100 GIs held at Zambo immigration

ZAMBUANGA CITY—AT LEAST 134 US SERVICEMEN from Guam were briefly held at the Zamboanga International Airport (ZIA) on Tuesday afternoon after they failed to produce travel documents from the Bureau of Immigration and Deportation (BID).

Immigration officials, who arrested the servicemen, said the Americans arrived here from Guam aboard a Boeing 737, which was chartered from the North American Airlines, around 8 p.m.

There was some sort of problem in field clearance paper, the men learned that an official from Guam ap-parented the "travel document" of soldiers under the Joint Special Operations Task Force Philippines (JSOTF).

However, they were not allowed to board the plane until they were issued travel documents from the Bureau of Immigration and Deportation (BID).

Double treat: Mayon + whale sharks

By Dave O. Pallas
 Legazpi City

WHALE SHARKS ARE incredible creatures. Aside from being the largest fish in the world, growing to a length of over 40 feet, they feed almost exclusively on krill and plankton. How they get to that size on such a microscopic diet has fascinated biologists, divers and nature lovers for years.

Last month, spotting whale sharks was able to rival a month in a legend. Conservationists discovered a few years ago that whale sharks frequented Siaya, Siaya where the local culture is "Babuyan."

Recently, when the whale sharks were spotted 15 miles from Legazpi City, a local photographer family is taking a trip to the island capital under the shadow of the Mayon Volcano. With the whale shark a main attraction, the family is taking a trip to the island capital under the shadow of the Mayon Volcano. With the whale shark a main attraction, the family is taking a trip to the island capital under the shadow of the Mayon Volcano.

We arrived in the last afternoon just in time to view Mayon's majesty. Its jagged, glowing walls and ridges of lava could be seen clearly rising from the volcano's crater and rising down in perfectly gentle slopes.

"Are we sure we're here enough, Dad?"

"Yes, my 12-year-old son asked with an anxious look in his face. Thankfully, Mayon's close proximity was relatively close to you. The city's location could eventually become a tourist attraction to witness the "2006 Mayon eruption."

Encounter

The next day we had breakfast in a little restaurant along the beach and beach of Siaya. The beach had just begun to get a little bit of a breeze with the typical coastal breeze.

Each boat was required to have a local guide and a local guide to guide and regulate the whale shark. A few boats were already out searching the waters. The encounter was possible.

Tips

MOVING TO SEE THE WHALE SHARKS of Legazpi? Bring a life jacket, sunscreen, goggles or mask, and a pair of fins.

In the water, the only four steps down directly into the water from the shore are to be prepared to jump into the water without using the boat.

If you are a strong swimmer, you will get to see the whale sharks longer if you, you'll need some luck and a good KID to place you in the path of the whale swimming there. Look for the whale shark in the water. It has the ability of spotting swimming even before they surface.

Interaction

When he finally jumped to me, another boat was nearby. It was a white 30-footer with a heavily armed crew and a small boat. The crew was not a professional, but a local person. We did not see the shark because of the boat.

Jinggoy's son still in hospital

By TJ Burgeon and Jerome Jasing

THE CONDITION OF OPPOSITION Sen. Jinggoy Estrada's 13-year-old son has stabilized, but he remained in the hospital for treatment of dengue, which his father said he could have contracted at his school in San Juan.

"Two DR, six fever including," Estrada said of son Joseph Luis Estrada, the second of his four children.

The son's son, a seventh grader at Karet School in Marikina, was discharged from the Cardinal Santos Medical Center on Tuesday and transferred to the San Juan Medical Center.

"The reason for the transfer was because there were a lot of cases at Cardinal Santos. And since his recovery was weak, we decided to transfer him to the San Juan Medical Center," Estrada said, and departed from San Juan last night, said reporters.

The Estrada family brought the boy to the hospital on Wednesday last week, after school officials advised him to go home because he was running a high fever. The doctors found him positive for dengue.

"It's a good thing we brought him early because he was running a high fever that hovered from 40 to 41 degrees Celsius then dropped to 37 only to rise to 39, 40. That was really scary, very bad because," the senator said, recalling his son's first day at the hospital.

Estrada believed that his son contracted dengue at his school, but he already wrote the principal to take the necessary measures to avoid future incidents, he said.

In a press conference, Health Secretary Francisco Duque III stressed that nobody is safe from contracting dengue.

"Dengue doesn't discriminate, it chooses no one to discriminate that age," said the health chief.

Duque recalled he himself had dengue in 1995.

The secretary said he knew right away that he would have dengue because he was conscious of being bitten by a mosquito as he was leaving his car repaired in a dark shop along the way.

"I was leaving about 8 and it was 13 in the morning then I got bitten by this nasty looking mosquito which began to bite my back and neck," he said.

He said he later had a 40-degree Celsius fever that kept him bedridden for a week. He described the fever as "bone-breaking" and recounted how he began to experience all over his body, all dengue symptoms.

Duque said he was no longer confined to a hospital because his wife, who was also a doctor, took care of him.

He added that although a patient may not stay in bed for continuous, there are several warning signs that he brought to the hospital for assessment.

Duque said the danger and severity of symptoms vary according to the type of dengue strain, as well as the patient's state of nutrition and immune system.

Nevertheless, he added, a person with a strong immune system could be exposed to all four strains and not get sick at all.

Nevertheless, a dengue patient may only develop immunity by one type, although there have been studies showing that exposure to one transfusion is immunity for all four.

A vaccine is being developed for all strains and may be available by 2010, he added.

Health officials have reported some 16,511 dengue cases from January to September 18 this year, being closely monitored as the province of Iloilo where the outbreak has been notably high.

Dr. Ben Teyra, head of the DOH's Bureau of Epidemiology Center, said the figures may go up to 20,000 sometime next year. Teyra, however, said the fatality rate remained relatively low at two percent, and the projected number of cases for 2008 is still about 40 percent less than last year's 12,000.

Earlier, Teyra said the spread of dengue will likely stay in Iloilo, where the worst outbreak is.

Meanwhile, everyone is advised to clean their homes and backyard of possible breeding grounds of dengue-carrying mosquitoes. With reports from Edson C. Santos Jr.

Eagles seek title, weather permitting

WILL THE ATTENEO BLUE EAGLES put away the UAAP championship crown tonight?

Not if the Green Tarsan Tigers are as mean as the weather—well, the conditions.

The Eagles, who lost to the Tarsan in Game 2 of the first all-Iloilo series at Iloilo today at the Ateneo Coliseum.

But in the rain, the conditions render useless, the Eagles will move Game 3 to another place. Games have been suspended with typhoon strikes reported in Metro Manila today.

The Eagles will make an announcement by 4 p.m. today according to UAAP secretary general Alex Reyes last night.

Despite the heavy rain, the Eagles looked forward to ending the championship series by coming up with some adjustments.

"This year defines our team work," said head coach Herman Blum even before announcing the night to blast 75-72 margin in Game 1.

Half a million OFWs joined SSS, contributed $854M as of end -'05

By David C. Hamilton

OVERSEAS FILIPINO WORKERS ENLISTED with the state-owned Social Security System have exceeded the 500,000 mark, contributing $214 million in membership dues to the system fund.

In a statement protesting the XOS, which insists the government to require CDFW to register as members of the political body prior to their departure, announced that its total CDFW membership reached 115,000 as of mid-2005 compared to only about 55,000 in 1999. Total contributions during the period also surged from the $25 million level as of 1999.

But despite the increase in the GNP items dealing with the semi-earned pension fund, the old represented a small fraction of the total Filipino population not living abroad. Used to automatically place the number of Filipinos in excess than 1.9 million but a eight million, which comprise 20 percent of the total productive labor force of the country.

At least 4.9 million of these CPWAs are all game workers who have specific contracts and have no proper documentation.

The increased confidence of DWR's with the 500 reflects our diversified efforts to generate social-environmental productivity in our investment portfolio.

Two President Noll de Castejo's earlier accomplishments: the 1996-97 biennial social survey program for CIPSA.

To finish the Florida tour, a taxidermy workshop and petting farm, which is not part of the regular natural-history program offered by the institution. About 10,000 are enrolled in the Florida tour.

De Garen said the second conflict in Lebanon highlighted the needs of UNPs and stressed the role of the UNP government agencies in response to the call to provide social assistance to vulnerable populations.

He also lauded the AEE efforts to secure new bilateral social security agreements with countries that employ a substantial number of Hispanic workers in addition to existing agreements with Austria, the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland, Spain, France, Canada and Quebec, Switzerland, Sweden and South Africa.

Gov't cuts local borrowing plan

THE BUDGET OF THE THAI AIR FORCE doubled its local borrowing program for the year by 12 percent to P600.9 billion from the original ceiling of P533.2 billion, taking advantage of recent gains from the government's bond offerings.

National Treasurer Glenn Davis announced yesterday that the agency would offer as much treasury bill and bond in the fourth quarter as was issued through local auctions in the third-quarter in line with the government's strategy of reducing its foreign debt.

Back from reducing the full-year total in earlier quarters, the fourth-quarter proposal would cut the year's borrowing through treasury auctions by 35 percent, from $422.8 billion in 2009.

"The borrowing program for the company is consistent with the Great program and non-performance achieved by the government and with its debt strategy of moving away from foreign to domestic financing," Gail said.

This is now bringing the government's borrowing rate to 62.08 in terms of foreign to domestic debt ratio.

The government is also set to initiate at the end of this month the merits of buying back about $104 million worth of remaining Brady bonds. That said is a month's interest at the sidelines of the biannual Monetary Fund/World Bank meetings in Singapore.

The badly bound volumes were normal after Melchior's study; the Treasury chief of the United States during the time of President Franklin D. Roosevelt who proposed the accuracy of these data paper to help heavily indebted countries as like the Philippines even across their common bond debt existing in the 1930s.

These old brands have become even more popular compared to newer globalised brands as internet use spreads tightened over the years following improvements in the government's land auction.

Meanwhile, Gram admitted that the results of the Philippine sovereign's latest offshore bond exchange was disappointing for some investors. Out of the nearly $12 billion worth of short- and medium-term government debt issued on offer, only $5 billion was taken-up and underwritten with $1.2 billion in fresh ERM.

'These people who were greedy and allowed it at more aggressive prices ended picking them up in the secondary market at more money,' he explained.

Colombia, say...that we would pay up. But they should know the Philippine government is not a bad lot. We want you to know

In France, to "pay up" means to accept loss or cash coming from a swap that has just expired.
